Curriculum Vision

Maiden Erlegh Trust recognises that Personal Development (Annex 1) is a fundamental part of our curriculum (academic and pastoral) work.

It is our aim (Figure 1) that learners will gain knowledge, skills and understanding so that they:

The cooperation and partnership with parents and the wider community is essential if we are to contribute effectively to the development of learners' Personal Development knowledge and understanding. We are therefore committed to working closely with them whenever possible.

Roles and Responsibilities

All teachers are teachers of Personal Development, but occasionally expertise can be brought in from outside e.g. visiting speakers, drama companies. Given its importance, each school has appointed a lead person responsible for the local design and delivery of Personal Development. The quality of content and design are overseen by the Trust's School Improvement Team (Annex 2).

Curriculum Design

All learners should have access to an appropriate Personal Development curriculum for their age, stage and cognitive ability as part of their main provision. This includes learners who are educated off site (partially or fully) and subject to statutory right of withdrawal.

Our Personal Development provision is compliant with national guidelines and recommendations:

- Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education (PSHE)
- Personal, spiritual, moral, social and cultural (PSMSC) and Fundamental British Values (FBV)
- Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) (Annex 3)
- Religious Education (RE) – National Curriculum Guidance and local SACRE Guidance (Annex 4)
- Citizenship
- Careers and Employability Education (Annex 5)

It also provides for coverage of local and contextual themes, as well as any current issues (e.g. elections).

It is delivered primarily through timetabled Personal Development sessions, but also through (but not limited to):

- The subject curriculum
- Assemblies
- Extra-ordinary sessions for cohorts

In addition, there are opportunities in all schools for the curricular enrichment of Personal Development e.g. sports, performing and visual arts, debating, Young Magistrates, Duke of Edinburgh, work experience (depending on the setting).

Furthermore, there are a range of pupil/student voice and leadership opportunities in each setting, which provides opportunities for democracy in practice and to develop soft-employability skills and self-esteem.

Across the Trust, the Personal Development curriculum has a “spiral” design to ensure that themes are revisited and developed as learners grow up.

Topics for learners in all schools are grouped into 6 core themes:

- Emotional Wellbeing
- Citizenship and Community
- Careers, Work Experience and Work-Related Learning
- Fundamental British Values
- Personal Health and Relationships (physical, mental, and sexual health)
- Risk and Safety

Each school’s Personal Development provision (Annex 6) is slightly different which is appropriate for its learners and context (Table 1).

All pastoral staff who work within the schools have a responsibility to implement the Personal Development programme devised for their year group or phase and differentiate for the individual needs of their learners.

All academic staff are expected to deliver specific elements of Personal Development where required (e.g. science or RS) and to highlight other opportunities within their lessons to enrich the Personal Development curriculum. Subject leaders have written these opportunities within the schemes of learning.

Each school has a curriculum intent, curriculum overview and centralised resources for teaching (Annex 6).

Curriculum Implementation

The main pedagogical choices for the delivery of Personal Development are centred around:

- Highly effective teaching
- “Letting them in on the secret” and Brain-Book-Buddy-Boss (or similar) to develop independence and resilience
- High quality questioning (written and verbal)
- Strategies to support knowledge acquisition and independence (e.g.: linked to cognitive load theory)
- The use of clear models of end-products and/or ways of working so that learners are set up to succeed and embed learning
- Collaborative learning and structured discussion
- Assessment for Learning.

To support the delivery of these sessions in particular:

1. There will be clear guidance on the Behaviours for Learning for Personal Development sessions e.g.: the way people are treated, active listening and how to make a case and disagree respectfully.
2. We will use positive and realistic examples, stimuli and role models for learners to follow.
3. We will provide opportunities for reflection, discussion, advice and support to enable them to set personal goals.

In addition, we will support the development of reading and vocabulary acquisition, as well as the strengthening of cultural capital through:

- The selection of appropriately ambitious and stimulating texts or videos (for use in lessons or enrichment via an online platform such as Google Classroom or Microsoft Teams).
- Guided reading and discourse writing cycle strategies.

Where appropriate, teachers will exploit opportunities to apply their numeracy knowledge and skills, and to explain their mathematical choices.

Assessment of the quality of learning

It is understood that the impact of key elements of Personal Development, especially those linked to personal development and preparation for the future, cannot effectively be assessed whilst the pupil/student is at school.

That said, there will be a clear progression of knowledge and skills which will be developed over time, with an example shown in Annex 7, and these will be assessed formatively through strategies such as:

- Mind maps
- Knowledge quizzes
- Problem-solving and case-studies which draw on layers of knowledge and skills
- Oral and written presentations
- Observation of contribution to lessons and group work
- Quality of response to feedback
- Self-/peer-assessment
- Personal Learning Checklist self-review

Any extended writing or oral presentations will be reviewed for spelling, punctuation, and grammar relative to learners' age and English targets.

Monitoring Personal Development

The implementation of Personal Development will be monitored using Maiden Erlegh Trust's Continuous Improvement Strategy looking at a range of evidence such as:

- the quality of learning (and thus the impact of curriculum design and teaching) through observation
- academic outcomes where appropriate e.g.: RE
- report outcomes e.g.: for listening, discussion etc
- learner self-assessment
- learner feedback and surveys
- feedback from work experience
- NEETS and Destination figures
- cross-Trust moderation activities
- Trust and external review.

This then enables the Personal Development Lead to report on the impact of Personal Development (against specified aims) through the school evaluation process.

ANNEX 1: Definition of Personal Development

Personal Development

Personal Development is a lifelong process, in which schools play a part. Personal Development education helps learners to build their confidence, resilience and self-esteem, and to identify and manage risk, make informed choices and understand what influences their decisions. It enables them to recognise, accept and shape their identities, to understand and accommodate difference and change, to manage emotions and to communicate constructively in a variety of settings. Developing an understanding of themselves, empathy and the ability to work with others will help learners to form and maintain good relationships, develop the essential skills for future employability and better enjoy and manage their lives and futures in modern Britain.

Spiritual Development

Spiritual education is the exploration of beliefs, the respectful of faith and faiths, the enjoyment of learning about oneself, others and the world around us, the use of the imagination and creativity, and reflecting on all of the above. Spiritual development includes:

- Exploring values and beliefs, including religious beliefs and the way in which they impact on peoples' lives.
- Accommodating difference and respecting the integrity of individuals, including the tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs.
- Having the opportunity to understand human feelings and emotions, the way they impact on people and how an understanding of them can be helpful.
- Feeling happiness, pride, forgiveness and responsibility.
 - Exercising imagination, curiosity, creativity and intuition.
 - Exploring, searching, questioning and engaging.
- Encouraging deeper questioning and giving the learners space for their own thoughts, ideas and concerns.
 - Experiencing order, peace, wonder and calm.
 - Surviving hardship, pain and grief.
 - Empathising with others at times of joy and tragedy.

Moral Development

Moral education is the ability to build a framework of values which regulates their own personal behaviour, thus allowing them to recognise the difference between right and wrong and applying it to their own lives. We aim to help learners understand the expectations of societies shared and agreed values, including democracy, justice and the rule of law and how these change over time. We recognise the need to help our learners balance their right to an opinion with freedom of speech together with respect and tolerance of others' values and beliefs. Moral development includes having:

- The understanding of the concept of right and wrong.
- The opportunity and willingness to reflect and develop their own opinions
- The ability to deal effectively with moral conflict and temptation.
- The understanding that people choose their behaviour and that those choices have consequences.
- The determination to choose wisely with consideration for self and others.
- The understanding of the danger of acting against one's conscience.
- Encourage them to take pride in themselves and their work.
- The ability and willingness to exercise compassion, understanding and forgiveness.

Social Development

Maiden Erlegh Trust aims to develop our learners to have an understanding of the part that they play in the school community and wider society, both now and in the future. They need to be able to appreciate different points of view, co-operate with others, being able to resolve conflicts, whilst accepting fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, liberty, respect and tolerance. Social development includes learning how to:

- Set aside self-interest to work with others for the common good.
- Develop good team working through providing opportunities to co-operate and share.
- Use good manners and courteous behaviour.
- Develop their own self-confidence.
- Show respect and tolerance for others, their opinions, beliefs and customs, especially those from protected groups (Equality Act 2010).
- Negotiate disagreements fairly and compromise willingly when necessary.
- Contribute confidently to the well-being of friendship groups and have a sense of pride in their community.
- Understand and respect British values: democracy, tolerance, individual liberty, mutual respect, rule of law.
- Understand, appropriately express, recognise and respond to emotions in others.

Cultural Development

Cultural education in this area will be typified by learners: showing their appreciation of their own culture and other cultures in their community, Britain and throughout the World and the influence they have. They will take part in cultural opportunities, exploring how we are all the same and how we are different; how we became the way that we are and how we are changing. In order to develop community cohesion and prevent racism then learners need to explore acceptance, understanding, respect and celebration of diversity. Cultural development includes:

- Providing learners with the knowledge of, appreciation and respect of the key features of their own cultural traditions and practices and of other major cultural groups within their own community and the wider world.
- A sense of belonging within local, regional, national and international cultures, together with a willingness and ability to celebrate and contribute creatively to these cultures.
- Ensuring learners understand how to operate in the emerging world culture of shared experiences provided by television, travel and the internet.
- Developing the knowledge, skills, understanding, qualities, and attitudes they need to understand, appreciate, and contribute to culture in the form of music, art, drama, literature, sport, and faith;
